Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children in Hawaii: Prevent, Identify, Respond
Sadly, it often takes something unthinkable happening to a child for communities to realize how widespread and pervasive sex trafficking is in Hawai‘i. We all hope “not on our island,” “not in our school,” and “not to my child.” By the end of this webinar, you will be armed with current, comprehensive, and local information to combat Commercial Sexual Exploitation of the Children in your community!

Guy Talk: Fight Sex Trafficking (This month we have a guest panelist, Chris Yanuaria, MSW.)
Guys, let’s talk about sex trafficking. The issue impacts us, our sons, our daughters, our wives/girlfriends, and our friends in so many ways that we don’t like to think or talk about. We may even be contributing to the problem without realizing it! This webinar is a shame-free zone that will open those conversations and equip us to use our roles to fight sex trafficking.

Trauma Informed Response to Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children
Trauma both contributes to and is a result of sex trafficking. Understanding that is essential to preventing and responding to sex trafficking. This webinar will dive into trauma, how it happens, what it looks like, how it contributes to sex trafficking, what sex trafficking trauma looks like, and how to respond appropriately.

The CSEC Conversation: When and How to Get Started (This month we have a guest panelist, mom, author, and founder of Scream, Run, Tell, Elizabeth Lim.)
Talking to your keiki about sexual exploitation is difficult! The topic alone is scary: the impact, the trauma, considering their innocence. As parents, we can be overwhelmed trying to find the right time and the right words. This webinar will address all of these concerns and equip you with the knowledge and tools to confidently and proactively engage your keiki with age appropriate, trauma-informed, innocence-protecting methods to get started today.

Internet Safety 101: How Predators Identify, Groom, and Exploit Youth Online (Presented by Shared Hope International)

In the first webinar of Shared Hope International’s three-part Back to School Internet Safety series, we will be discussing how traffickers and online predators are taking advantage of youth’s reliance on the internet during the COVID-19 pandemic to sexually exploit them at an unprecedented rate—all from behind a screen. Panelists will unpack predator tactics, youth vulnerabilities, screen time psychology, warning signs, and so much more!

Tim Hitchens, MSW, is the Education Program Manager at Hoʻōla Nā Pua in Hawaii. Tim is an experienced social worker who moved from Philadelphia to Honolulu and currently works hard to educate folks all over Hawaii about child sexual exploitation and the dangers (and wonders) of the internet.

John Pizzuro, MA, CFE, is the Internet Crimes Against Children Commander at the New Jersey State Police. In addition, John co-leads the National ICAC Task Force and is a motivational speaker, focusing on topics internet technology and cybersecurity issues.

Jessica Peck, DNP, APRN, CPNP-PC, CNE, CNL, FAANP, is the Chair of NAPNAP Partner for Vulnerable Youth in Texas. She is also an expert pediatric clinician and anti-trafficking advocate, focusing on the health impacts of excessive social media use and online exploitation.
